

2017 Annual Report

Building community and inspiring transformation through free public participatory art in our cities

OUR VISION

We seek to empower everyone to create and share, transforming our communities and our society through participation and creativity.

OUR MISSION

FIGMENT's mission is to create participatory and inclusive cultural events and experiences that build community and inspire personal and social transformation.

OUR VALUES

We believe fundamentally that every human being is equally important, and that a just society is one that makes room for the participation and expression of everyone. In order to create a world in which this is possible, we have adopted eleven founding principles that summarize our values: Participation, Decommodification, Inclusion, Expression, Self-Reliance, Giving, Communal Effort, Civic Responsibility, Leave No Trace, Immediacy, and Gratitude.

Dear FIGMENT supporters and friends,

As we enter our 12th season, I honestly can't believe how far we've come since we started on Governors Island in 2007... from one event on an abandoned military base to a global movement that has created 62 events in 19 cities in 5 countries on 4 continents.

So much around us has changed in these last 12 years. That abandoned base, Governors Island, has been transformed from an unknown destination, with roughly 50,000 visitors all summer in 2007, our first year, to a redeveloped park and key part of summer in New York City, with nearly 800,000 visitors in 2017. From the beginning, we wanted Governors Island to become an international art destination; now, with the success we've been able to create collaboratively with the island and all the other producing partners, I think we can declare victory! Governors Island is a hit!

FIGMENT started in July 2007 just one week after the first iPhone was released. In the decade since, we've watched as miraculous new applications and functionality have coaxed us to spend more and more time engaging with our screens. We're only just beginning to understand the long-term impacts of this deep codependent relationship with our technology.

FIGMENT continues to stand for what we always have: empowering everyone to create and share, that creativity is a natural ability of each of us, that when we create and share it has an unrivaled ability to promote mutual understanding and empathy, and thereby build and strengthen healthy communities in our cities.

In a world where "disconnecting" from those around us is easier than ever, we strive to create places for people that...

Enable discovery - People coming together in physical spaces to find new friends, make new connections, discover new arts practices and techniques, learn new things.

Foster human connection - Your connections at FIGMENT occur face-to-face, in real time; we're all here for a shared objective, we're all equal, and we are all connected.

Empower people to create - We want to see what YOU can come up with to create and share and have others participate in! We encourage everyone to express themselves and make art.

Serve presence - We want our events to be creative experiences that have a sense of immediacy, that are happening RIGHT NOW, and that are only able to be experienced in the immediate moment.

Thank you so much for your support of FIGMENT and for working with us to build a society that respects everyone equally and that encourages everyone to create and share openly.

Here's to a fantastic 2018!

Sincerely,

David Koren

FIGMENT 2017 Highlights

FIGMENT kicked off its second decade of events with our first-ever FIGMENT in Hong Kong—venturing onto our 4th continent and 5th country in a time when people, arts and cultural organizations across the US and beyond were still reeling from an unexpected US Presidential election that exposed and heightened feelings of exclusivity, social, economic and racial inequality, and divisiveness. FIGMENT’s mission to provide a safe space for everyone to participate and express themselves and build an inclusive community founded on equality could not be more relevant. Here are a few other highlights of 2017:

Dream Bigger at FIGMENT NYC

DREAM BIGGER is a new program at FIGMENT NYC, where, in addition to their curated projects, the team selected five high-impact participatory weekend-long projects for the FIGMENT NYC event. Colorful, photogenic, visible, highly interactive, and inviting discussion, we’re excited to see Dream Bigger return in 2018.

Revamping the How-To manual

With the number of cities organizing a FIGMENT growing every year, there was a need to finetune the FIGMENT How-To manual FIGMENT’s Administrative Team put together for core team members. The updated How-To provides more resources, guidelines, best practices, brand assets, legal and other helpful documentation, and a checklist for each city to run through when putting a FIGMENT event together.

Global Fundraiser: FIGMENT Masquerade Ball

By November 8, 2017 (before our final event of the season in Phoenix) FIGMENT had hosted 61 free interactive arts events in 18 cities, in 5 countries, on 4 continents—and we continue to grow and expand. To celebrate that fact, and to help alleviate the significant strain on our finances, the FIGMENT Global team and Board of Directors held its first-ever fundraiser filled with friends, art, a silent auction and raffle, and wonderful performances. A successful stab at a high(er)-end event for our advocates and champions, we’re aiming to hold another in 2018!

How the (South)West Was Won

Three days later, on November 11, our first-ever FIGMENT Phoenix filled The Unexpected Art Gallery at Grand Avenue and Polk Street with music, color and creativity. FIGMENT Phoenix collaborated with the already popular Grand Avenue Festival and PAPA’s parade festivities that weekend for an amazing first event.

Hong Kong

Our first-ever FIGMENT in Hong Kong (marking an expansion of FIGMENT onto our 3rd continent and 4th country) transformed the Gaia School in Tuen Mun into a participatory art explosion on February 4, 2017, from 1-6pm. Over the course of five hours, 500 people visited and participated with 25 projects. The event was, by any account, a huge success, proving the concept of FIGMENT in Asia, in our first non-Western context.

ALPHA

ALPHA celebrated its 5th anniversary at the much-loved Camp Ramblewood in Darlington, MA, from April 21-23, 2017. Participation and self-expression are at the heart of this FIGMENT ticketed event where everyone is invited to create and play in an environment where people are willing to step out their comfort zone for one uninterrupted weekend.

North Adams

The second FIGMENT North Adams returned to the picturesque Windsor Lake on April 29, 2017. As the sun set over Windsor Lake, the light-based projects were illuminated, and the FIGMENT team, sponsored by the City of North Adams, built a fire in the park's fire pit for visitors to enjoy. The event's relationship and involvement with the Massachusetts College of Liberal Arts (MCLA) has stayed strong, with MCLA student groups submitting many projects.

San Diego

Now in its 5th year, FIGMENT San Diego is small but mighty. For their wooden anniversary event on May 13, 2017, there were around 25 projects, close to 30 volunteers, put together by a tiny but dedicated team. The star of San Diego's FIGMENT is always Chicano Park, and after some first year challenges, the event has now fully integrated itself into the park's regular summer programming schedule.

New York City

FIGMENT NYC 2017: FIGMENT NYC's 11th annual event on June 3-4, 2017, was held in tighter quarters, due to the redevelopment of Governors Island, specifically the Parade Ground that often houses the event's large-scale and summer-long projects. With the introduction of Dream Bigger, a special call for art for high-impact projects at FIGMENT NYC, the NYC event is reinventing itself as it moves into its second decade.

Summer-Long Projects: The NYC summer program saw the return of the City of Dreams Pavilion; this year's competition winner was Cast & Place by Team Aesop. FIGMENT NYC also celebrated the 10th anniversary of a long-time Governors Island favorite, our curated artist-designed minigolf course—this year's designs relating to the sounds of New York City and its music scene of the past, present or future.

Oakland

FIGMENT Oakland's third event (after running a children's arts education program in partnership with Oakland Parks, Recreation & Youth Development in the summer of 2016) returned to its beautiful home at Mosswood Park on June 10, 2017. A high-traffic area, perfect weather, and a central location led to over 600 people coming together to create and engage with over 30 projects.

Baltimore

FIGMENT Baltimore organized its second event on June 25, 2017, this time in Carroll Park. Opting for a cozy (10+ projects) one-day event once more, a Musical Seesaw and a giant Candyland game helped put a smile on the faces of nearly 200 people who participated in the event.

Chicago

For their fourth event, FIGMENT Chicago settled into Palmer Square Park on July 15, 2017. Eclectic live music drew in around 2,500 people of all ages, actively participating in the various art projects. Local community members were excited to engage with all projects during the event and the participating artists enjoyed the opportunity to freely share their unique form of creativity at this fun day.

Boston

On July 22-23, 2017, FIGMENT Boston once again transformed the Rose Kennedy Greenway into a participatory art space for the community, this year with over 30 projects to explore. The event marked the 8th consecutive year that FIGMENT Boston has successfully brought more art to their communities with a lasting impact on the volunteers, participants, leaders and artists alike.

Derby, UK

FIGMENT returned to Derby, UK for its second event on August 19, 2017, on the lawn and square outside the Derby Silk Mill (the site of the world's first factory), and inside the Silk Mill's Project Lab. Over the course of the day about 500 people interacted with about 15 registered projects in total. FIGMENT Derby is funded through the Derby Silk Mill Museum as part of their programming; it is run by a team of volunteers and supported by Silk Mill staff on the day of the event.

Toronto

For its 5th annual event, on August 19, 2017, FIGMENT Toronto changed venues from Olympic Island to the Toronto mainland, in Dufferin Grove Park—a move that paid off beautifully. The team's relationship with the city is strong as ever, as is their consistent grant support from the Government of Canada. Opting for a smaller, one-day event this year with 23 registered projects helped the team find their footing on this new location; they plan to revisit the park in 2018.

Phoenix

Our first-ever FIGMENT in the Southwest took place in Phoenix on November 11, 2017, filling The Unexpected Art Gallery with music, color and creativity. Highlights included a fashion show of outfits made from recyclable materials and a parade that ended the Grand Avenue Festival. Throughout the year leading up to FIGMENT, the team successfully activated spaces in Mesa and Phoenix, partnering with established arts organizations such as the Mesa Art Center, Grand Avenue Preservation Association, and the Participatory Arts Preservation Association (PAPA).

2017 Financial Performance

FIGMENT is an incredibly efficient arts project, from the perspective of the amount of financial investment required in order to reach and affect a large number of people. While our total expenditures for 2017 were approximately $242,000, we reached well over 100,000 people through our events and programs in eleven cities, our ALPHA creators' weekend, and summer-long installations on New York City's Governors Island. We are able to achieve this exceptional efficiency due to the significant volunteer resources that are contributed freely to our events and exhibitions by thousands of artists, volunteers, and team members. This in-kind contribution of volunteer time, if we were able to calculate its monetary value, would total several million dollars.

Despite a challenging economic environment for arts and culture, and many institutions and individuals exercising a great deal of caution in their charitable contributions, FIGMENT continued to expand in 2017, adding new programs and events in additional cities. In our eleven-year history, FIGMENT has always managed to break even in each season. We have learned to scale our expenditures on the fly to match the revenue that we are able to generate.

The vast majority of our revenue comes from grants from foundations, government entities, and donations from individuals. We do not accept any corporate sponsorship or advertising. Earlier in our history, we had a great deal of success in securing grants from foundations concerned with the arts and community development. However, as these foundations have reduced the size of their charitable campaigns in the last several years, we have increasingly relied on donations from individuals, the vast majority of which are small (<$100), and include the proceeds in donations from our summer-long minigolf course on Governors Island.

Please Note: These totals by category for both income and expenses are approximate, and are based on our entire 2017 season (February to November), as opposed to our 2017 fiscal year, which runs from July 1 to June 30. As our fiscal year ends in the middle of our season, we find it helpful to look at income and expenses on the basis of the season, rather than the fiscal year, which can be misleading depending on the timing of specific income and expenses.
